NEW YORK, N.Y., November 30, 2015 – Orthology, an innovative, cost-effective solution for rapid recovery from back and body injuries, chronic pain and orthopedic surgeries, as well as ongoing 'TuneUp' wellness care, has acquired All Seasons Orthopedics and Sports Physical Therapy – an out patient orthopedic and sports physical therapy practice in New York City and its subsidiary, NYC Athletic Training P.C. All Seasons is located in Midtown at 6 East 39th Street, Suite 1100.

Based on a patent-pending, research-based methodology developed by Orthology Chief Clinical Officer Dr. Josh Sandell, DC, DACBSP, ICSSD, Orthology rapidly resolves injuries, restores function and improves athletic performance. Delivered by highly trained Collaborative Care teams of Physical Therapists, Chiropractors and Soft Tissue Specialists – and proven on some of the world's greatest professional athletes – Orthology targets the root cause of pain in order to get each person back to living life to the fullest as quickly as possible.

Like Dr. Sandell, All Season's President – Dr. Warren Hamlet, DPT, ATC, CSCS – believes personalized treatment empowers patients to reach their full rehabilitative potential. Both companies highly value a patient-focused approach that caters to each individual's specific orthopedic needs and allows patients to get better, faster.

"Orthology is thrilled to embark on this new partnership as we expand our offerings and availability throughout New York," said Dr. Sandell. "All Seasons is renown within the community for its state-of-the-art facilities, commitment to innovative, personalized treatment and robust athletic training program run by NYC Athletic Training P.C.'s professionals."

"We are very pleased to grow our team with Dr. Sandell and Orthology. Our mission aligns perfectly with Orthology's personalized and comprehensive approach to injury rehabilitation and prevention," said Dr. Hamlet. "Together, our combined resources will enable us to bring outstanding care to many more patients in New York City – and beyond."
